Clean Water Services Advisory Commission

The purpose of the Clean Water Advisory Commission (CWAC) is to review and discuss major policy issues and programs and make recommendations to the Board of Directors. The Clean Water Services Board of Directors is comprised of the individuals elected to the Washington County Commission. There are 15 Board-appointed members of CWAC and membership reflects a diversity of occupations and interests as follows:

- 5 from neighborhoods
- 2 owners or managers of businesses other than land development or construction
- 2 from the development community
- 2 from environmental organizations
- 2 from agricultural interests
- 1 non-voting member from Clean Water Services
- 1 non-voting member representing a member city

CWAC terms are for four years and meetings are generally held the second Wednesday of the month at the Clean Water Services Administration Building Complex, 2550 SW Hillsboro Hwy.

Public Involvement

The Clean Water Services public involvement process is designed to achieve these results:

- Trust and credibility among all parties
- Agreement, consensus and support
- A sound policy foundation which provides clear direction as to how the policies are to be implemented
- Policies which are consistent with public values
- Timely decision making and appropriate action
- Identification of win-win solutions which improve the overall quality of decision making

Your Participation

By donating a modest amount of time to work in partnership with elected officials and staff people, a community member can add much to the character of Clean Water Services. The voice and viewpoint of a community member can be the turning point in many policy decisions.

There are many opportunities to serve, including CWAC, ad-hoc advisory committees, and task forces to solve particular problems. If you have interest in these areas, please contact Clean Water Services Public Affairs at 503.681.3600.
